

Make Tentative Plans For Dividing Three Election Districts

Propose Changes in Three Lower Bucks County Election Districts

Tentative plans for the division of three election districts in lower Bucks county have been received by the county Board of Elections, at Doylestown, according to Harold S. Hellyer, clerk of the elections board.

The three districts for which plans have been received are: Middletown township, lower district; Falls township, upper district; and Bensalem township, lower middle district, Hellyer stated.

These districts are a portion of the 17 districts which were recommended to be split by the county commissioners who also sit as the board of elections.

Hellyer said that because of the great amount of work involved petitions to have the districts split will not be ready for presentation by the Election Board to the County Commissioners before the primary elections, but that he hopes they will be ready for presentation before the municipal elections in November.

Hellyer said that the changes requested are as follows: For Middletown township, lower district—that portion of the district west of the boroughs of Langhorne Manor and Pennell to become a separate district, and all that portion east of the boroughs to become a separate district.

For Falls township, upper district.

Robert F. Morrow is Fined $500 and Costs; Prison Term Suspended

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 30 — Robert F. Morrow, 30, of Penndel, pleaded guilty to arson at a session of Bucks County court yesterday. Morrow is a former assistant chief of the Langhorne Fire Co., and is a rural mail carrier. He pleaded guilty to three counts of sending in false fire alarms, and three counts of arson. He was put on probation.

Judge Hiram H. Keller imposed a fine of $500 and costs of prosecution and suspended a prison sentence of nine to 23 months. Morrow was paroled immediately upon the payment of the fine and costs imposed.

Morrow pleaded guilty to starting a fire Dec. 17, 1950, at what was then the Soby Post home (former Bucks County Country Club) on that date. The fire was discovered by the steward of the club.

Robert Graham, Bucks County fire marshal, said that two boxes of crepe paper were found stuffed between the joists under the porch floor. One bunch of paper had burned out, and fire from the other bunch of paper had ignited the joists, causing slight damage.

It was testified that between 1950 and November of 1952, there had Zoning for Bensalem township will be sought by the Greater Bensalem Bucks County Chamber of Commerce, according to Theodore Luz, 3d, executive secretary of the group which now numbers more than 30 business executives in the Bensalem, Lower Southampton, and Middletown township areas.

According to Luz the group hopes to solicit the cooperation of the township supervisors in setting up standards of zoning. The Chamber expects to have the machinery set up by its February meeting to "take direct action" on the matter Luz stated.

The Chamber held its first general membership meeting Monday at Feasterville. Harry K. Trend, executive secretary and past president of the Pennsylvania Association of Executives spoke of the Bensalem chamber's opportunity for service to lower Bucks county, said Luz.

The need for expansion of Route 13, or the supplementing of that

COURIER ORDERS NEW NEWSPAPER PRESS

Above is a view of the modern newspaper press now being built by the Goss Printing Press Co. in Chicago for the Courier. This modern unit is the latest in newspaper printing equipment and is being planned to take care of the rapidly increasing circulation of the Courier. It will require six months to build the press and about eight weeks to install it in the Courier plant. Upon completion there will be a number of test runs conducted before the press is put into actual service.

New Dek-A-Tube Newspaper Press Being Built for The Bristol Courier is To Be Installed in July; With Its Installation Another Step Will Have Been Completed in Modernization Plan of The Courier Plant; High Speed to Facilitate Delivery

The Courier, shortly after the first of the year, signed a contract with the Goss Printing Press Company of Chicago, Ill., for a new 24-page Dek-A-Tube newspaper press. The press is now being built, and it is expected it will be installed in The Courier press room sometime in July. After the necessary test runs have been completed, the press will be put into operation for printing The Courier.

The new press will be so located that there will be sufficient room remaining alongside of it, to accommodate a similar unit, when the necessity arises.

The present Duplex press, on which The Courier is now printed, will continue to be operated until the new unit is ready to be put into full operation.

Installation of the new press will require approximately eight weeks. With the installation of the new press, another step will have been taken in the modernization of The Courier plant.

This press is the first of its kind to be installed by any newspaper in Bucks county. A complete newspaper of from four to 24 pages can be printed upon it, and they will be automatically delivered from the basement press-room to the circulation department on the first floor on the street level.

The 24-page Dek-A-Tube press will print from 25,000 to 30,000 complete newspapers an hour. It weighs approximately 35 tons, and

Newportville Wife Tells About Seeing Intruder in Room

Mrs. Lillian Marks Positively Identifies Milton Garrison as Intruder

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 30 — Mrs. Lillian Marks, Newportville wife and the mother of five children, yesterday in criminal court positively identified Milton Garrison, 37, Cornwells Heights, as the intruder in the hall of their second floor home about 12:30 at night, Dec. 20, 1952.

Garrison, charged with burglary, went on trial yesterday before Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite.

The first witness for the Commonwealth, Mrs. Lillian Marks, testified she heard a bang which awakened her and her husband. "I got up, walked to the end of the hall and a man, Milton Garrison, walked out of my son's bedroom. He just stared at me as he came into hall and I stared at him. When I yelled 'there is a man in the house' he went back into my son's room, slammed the door and escaped through the window."

Frank Marks, 13, an eight grade student, who was sleeping in the bedroom, testified he was awakened when he heard window pane glass being broken and saw a man at the window. "I thought it was one of my brothers or sisters moving."

Hammerstein Likes "Hits" But Not the "Flops"

Pair of Playwrights Have New Show on Way: "Me and Juliet"

By Mitchell C. Hodges (Daily Intelligencer-Courier Feature Service)

"I like all the hits. I don't like the flops!"

Oscar Hammerstein II was talking about his shows in his attractive and roomy study in his home, "Highland Farm," just outside of Doylestown.

Rodgers and Hammerstein, whose "The King and I" and "South Pacific" are still filling nearly all the seats nightly in the theatres in which they are playing, have a new one coming along.

It's called "Me and Juliet." The title and story are Mr. Hammerstein's. "I've completed the dialogue," he said, "and now I'm working on the songs. Four of the songs have been turned out and Rodgers has fashioned the tunes for them."

"Me and Juliet" is to be a musical show about the theatre. It concerns a theatrical company and its experiences in and around a New York theatre. It calls for a large company, which will include large dancing and singing choruses.

The stars for the piece have already been chosen. They are William Hayes, now starring on the

Federal Commission Considers Channel Work Damage Sum

Recommendation is For An Amount Up to $400,000 Be Placed in Budget

A recommendation that an amount not to exceed $400,000 for property damage reimbursement be included in the budget for the deepening of the Delaware river to a 40-foot channel at Phila. and a 35-foot channel at Bristol is under consideration by a Federal commission, it was announced today.

According to John W. Franks, secretary of the Bristol and Lower Bucks Chamber of Commerce, this information was relayed to him by B. J. Witzig, head of the Project and Planning Development Committee, U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, Washington, D. C.

Franks stated that Witzig informed him that there is in the hands of the Bureau of the Budget of the Public Works Commission, for final approval, a recommendation that the amount of not over $400,000 be included in the budget for the deepening of the river, and that this amount be set aside to reimburse property owners along the Pennsylvania side of the river for damages to their properties that the deepening might cause.

According to Franks fears have been expressed here that because of the deepening, salt water from the Atlantic Ocean might make the borough water supply unusable and injure local private wells.

Franks said that the Chamber last year felt that such danger would be present and hired a Philadelphia legal firm to see what protection would be given to local homes and industries, and who would pay for damages that might be caused.

Check Validity, Petitions For Lighting Streets

Presented by Levitt Firm for Lights in Falls Township's Section of Levittown

FALLS TWP., Jan. 30 — Officials here are checking into the validity of petitions, presented by Levitt & Sons, Inc., for the lighting of streets in Falls twp.'s section of Levittown. Willard S. Curtin, township solicitor, said today.

He said petitions signed by 51 per cent of property owners on each township street in Levittown must be received by the township supervisors, before a lighting contract can be signed with the Phila. Electric Co. The petitions are being verified with lists of Levittown property owners, Curtin said, but the township has not yet received a complete list of owners.

"We are working to meet the legal requirements as rapidly as possible," Curtin said this morning. He would not predict when the lights would be turned on.

Previously, the twp. had made a request that the Levitt firm pay the lighting costs until the residents can be billed. A Levitt & Sons spokesman said Tuesday that the township has agreed to an arrangement whereby the builder will pay the light bill only until the streets are dedicated.

Thieves Force Way Into Laidecker Home

Shaw said the Laideckers told him that they had gone out for the evening and when they returned home about midnight they discovered a back kitchen door glass broken, and the place turned literally inside out.

Shaw said that the house-breakers were not content to "make a wreck" of the downstairs but went into the upstairs bedrooms and

BUYING "HOT" TIN

U. S. government will soon be buying "hot" tin. Bolivia has proclaimed the nationalization of her tin mines, but is unwilling to pay compensation to former owners. The new regime of President Paz Estenssoro doesn't put it that way; it says it will pay for the mines after the companies have paid several times as much in alleged taxes and penalties.

But the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, sole U. S. buyer and seller of tin, has just signed a contract for 5,000 tons of Bolivian tin at $1.17 1/2 cents a pound, f.o.b. South America.

This seems like a dubious course to follow, especially as Americans own a great deal of the stock of the seized mines. But there are several complicating factors. It is the RFC's job to see that the United States gets enough tin for national security stockpiles, and gets it at a fair price.

The RFC has been negotiating with Bolivia for more than a year—or refusing to buy because negotiations had broken down. Now that the price is considered about right, it has contracted for only 5,000 tons, compared to the 54,000 tons which it agreed to buy at $1.18 from Indonesia over a three-year period.

Before the Korean war tin was selling for 75 cents a pound. The United States, caught with its stockpiles down, started buying. The Belgian-Dutch-British-Bolivian tin cartel, the RFC charged, deliberately reduced output by 30 per cent and forced prices above $2 a pound. The situation became so fantastic that the RFC suspended buying entirely in July, 1951, to await lower prices.

But Bolivia still demanded more than the world price. In October, 1951, when the RFC was bidding $1.12, Bolivia was asking $1.50 and angrily charging that American tin price policies would shove her into "economic, political and social changes."

Politics being what it is in Latin America, this prediction may have been a safe one. It came true, anyway. Bolivia had another revolution, establishing a government of very dubious character.

GROUNDHOG TEACHES LESSON

The world laughs at the old tale of the groundhog, who is supposed to come out of his hole on February 2 to determine if spring is coming. Human idlers could well imitate that active little creature.

How did that little creature dig out all that dirt, from those underground recesses, and transport it outside his door? It was scratched out and moved along his interior passage with his little scraping claws.

Which is a suggestion that it is necessary to scratch to survive in this world of struggle. Fewer human beings than formerly seem to accept that truism.

Developers Urge Council To Provide Water to Tract

MORRISVILLE, Jan. 30—Developers of the old Comfort Farm here, namely the Morrisville Manor Construction Corp., are urging Morrisville borough council to take steps to supply the tract with water.

The Municipal Authority and council held a meeting this week. Bernard Weinberg, corporation president, states it was planned to build 929 houses on the tract west of the borough limits. He declared his firm prepared to pay for a 12-inch pipe that would connect the tract with the water works plant. Cost of the job was estimated at $215,000. The corporation would be reimbursed $176,000 from water rentals as the houses are constructed.

Council could take no action on the proposal, since only four councilmen were present. They were President William E. Anderson, Nicholas Mislan, Theodore H. Evans and Robert O. Warwick. Present for a time was Neal Nolan. Alfred O. Redland, chairman of the Authority, urged immediate action. He said he felt the water could be secured immediately from the present mains on Trenton avenue. When the houses are built requiring the 12-inch main it could be installed at that time.

Weinberg asked for early council action because of a February 19 deadline he has to meet. Another special session of council and the authority is expected shortly to reach a decision.

television "Show of Shows," Isabel Bigley, currently a star in "Guys and Dolls"; and Joan McCracken, first seen in the ballet in "Oklahoma," and then a big hit in "Bloomer Girl" and "Million Dollar Baby."

"Me and Juliet" goes into rehearsal late in March and will be first presented to the public at the Hanna theatre in Cleveland. Then follows a week in New Haven and three weeks in Boston. Finally, the early part of June, the New York opening.

George Abbott will direct the show. Robert Alton will fashion the dances while Robert Russell Bennett will arrange the score.

Where is "South Pacific still playing," he was asked? The answer was in New York, London, Stockholm and Melbourne, plus a touring company in the United States. "Most often, I write the words of a song first," explained Mr. Hammerstein. Then Rodgers backs them up with tunes. And I don't converse with him as much by phone as I used to do when working with Jerome Kern."

Oscar Hammerstein II, who will be 55 in July, stands at a specially designed desk when turning out his productions. He prefers to write while standing, for he often paces back and forth while conjuring up the line or thought he wants.

"The top of my desk is an old folding-type desk of the type sea captains used to take on board ships with them. This was put on a stand which my wife designed and had built for me."

How does Hammerstein like Bucks County?

"I love it," he exclaimed. "I like being here more and more. I hate the city. In fact, nowadays, I go there as seldom as possible, maybe only two days a week."

"Yes, I like the gentle and alluring landscape. And the peace I get down here in the country. I really enjoy and appreciate the peace which I find and which is not disturbed by persons who want to see or talk to me. The persons around here are very kind in not infringing on my privacy."

Part of his home is over 200 years old. Originally, it was set on a farm of about 40 acres. But recently, Mr. Hammerstein purchasducer in Hollywood. A married daughter, Alice, now Mrs. Philip Mathias, of Long Island, has written the lyrics for several shows yet to be produced.

Mrs. Hammerstein, formerly Dorothy Blanchard, of Melbourne, is an interior decorator and still practices this profession in New York. Her daughter, Susan, by a former marriage, is now Mrs. Henry Fonda.

Mr. Hammerstein admitted that his only local interest at the moment is in Welcome House, which was started by Pearl Buck. This organization devotes its efforts to taking care of or providing homes for children who are part American and part Asian.

There is now a waiting list of families who want to adopt these children, said Mr. Hammerstein. His daughter, Alice, has already adopted one.

What does Mr. Hammerstein do in his spare time? Well, he wanders over his attractive acreage and perhaps watches Peter Moen, his long-time friend and capable farm manager, busy with some of the Aberdeen Angus cattle, some of which have won prizes in shows.

Mr. Hammerstein also plays a great deal of tennis. Facing the front of his home, is a court which is part cork, part asphalt and part asbestos. This means you can play on it in almost any kind of weather. And right after a rain, because of its unusual drying qualities.

"Yes, I play tennis almost all year. I played on Christmas Eve—in my shorts, because it was quite a mild day. I also played on Christmas Day."

Everyone hopes that the New York theatrical reviews appearing after the opening of "Me and Juliet," can be sung to the tune of one of Hammerstein's most famous and singable numbers from "Oklahoma," "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning."

Mr. Hammerstein comfortably ensconced behind his desk in his large study, which runs the length of the front of his home.

New Dek-A-Tube Press

will take six months to build in the plant of the Goss Printing Press Company, Chicago — the world's largest manufacturer of newspaper, rotogravure and magazine presses.

This press prints on newsprint paper from three 800-pound rolls at the same time (when operating at full 24-page capacity.) The rolls are mounted at one end of the press. Three other rolls are mounted in reserve.

The paper is carried off the rolls, threaded in webs between the cylinders and into the folder, where the several sheets are combined, folded, cut off and delivered.

The elaborate electrical system contains 3,500 feet of wire. The Dek-A-Tube press is driven by a 50-horsepower motor, with a 5-hp. starting motor. It has eight push-button control stations.

Each station has buttons for "safe", "run", "inch", "increase", "decrease", and "stop". When a pressman pushes the "safe" button at any station, he can work on the press with the assurance that the press cannot be started from any other station. Only by pressing the "run" button at his station can the press be started.

The "run" button puts the big press in position to operate. When plating up the press or webbing the newsprint through it, the operator uses the "inch" button, which moves the press very slowly as long as he keeps his finger on the button.

When ready to roll, the operator presses the "increase" button. In order to step up the speed, he presses this button repeatedly. In this manner he may run the press at a speed of 15,000 papers an hour, increase the speed to 20,000, accelerate to the normal operating speed of 25,000, or in emergencies when still more speed is needed, he can increase it to 30,000.

Similarly, the pressman can decrease the press speed to meet conditions. In case of emergency, he can bring the press quickly to a dead stop from full speed by pressing the "stop" button. Goss automatic tension equipment controls the paper from the time it leaves the huge rolls and is carried through the press to the folder. This equipment keeps the web, as the long streamers of newsprint are called, at the same degree of tautness regardless of the speed of the press, preventing the rolls from unwinding too fast, keeping the web from accumulating excessive slack and preventing its becoming too tight. Electric hoists raise the rolls to their roll stands at the end of the Goss Dek-A-Tube press. The new 24-page press is vastly different from the newspaper press which it will replace. The old press is a Duplex Model B flatbed web press, which prints eight pages at a time, direct from type. The Courier's new Dek-A-Tube press prints 24 pages at one time, at a speed up to almost six times as fast as the old press.

Whereas the old Duplex press printed direct from type, the new rotary press prints from stereotype plates. When the type has been locked up in a chase, the form is put under a mat roller which exerts a pressure of 4,500 pounds per square inch. A papermache matrix is laid on top of the type form, and the "mat" is rolled. The impression of the type matter, halftone pictures and advertisements is pressed into the "mat", which then is placed in a tubular vacuum scorching, which dries the mat and shapes it cylindrically. Then the mat is placed in a vacuum casting box, into which molten stereotype metal (principally lead, with fractional amounts of tin, antimony and copper) is poured. The metal fills in the impressions made in the mat by the type and the "cuts". After about a minute, the metal hardens sufficiently to allow the casting box to be opened. The metal comes out in a cylindrical shape, with a lengthwise slot about 3/4 inch wide. This stereotype plate next is put on a finishing machine, where the inside is smoothed out, the edges are beveled and other rough and unnecessary portions are taken off. Then the plate is ready to be put on the press. The Courier's 24-page Dek-A-Tube press has 12 printing couples, each couple consisting of an impression cylinder and a plate cylinder. The impression cylinder is covered with packing, which consists of "blankets" and a tympan. This packing provides a firm, yet slightly cushioned surface for the actual printing operation. Each plate cylinder has provision for two stereotype plates. The plate cylinder and impression cylinder revolve in synchronization, both turning outward. Thus, the operation of large modern rotary newspaper presses is done on the same basic principle as the earliest printing devices, in which the solid, flat platen was screwed down on the type matter, with paper pressed in between. Each printing couple also has a series of inking rollers, designed as fountain roller, spiral transfer roller, rubber transfer rollers, two ink drums and two form rollers — all comprising the Goss Continuous Ink Feed System. These rollers carry the ink from the fountain to the plate, which transfers the ink to the paper as the long web passes between the plate and impression cylinders. Printing couples are arranged in pairs, so that the plate cylinder of one couple prints one side of the paper and the plate cylinder of the other couple prints the opposite side. The web, carried from the paper rolls through the several printing couples into the folder, is controlled largely by compensating rollers in each printing unit, which are set so that the various pages are "registered" properly. This means that the printed matter on one page "backs up" the printed matter on the reverse side exactly. The compensator rollers also are arranged so that the several sheets of newspaper are brought together at the proper time in the folder, so that all pages are cut off in the right place. The folder — the "heart" of the modern newspaper press — combines the several webs from the newsprint rolls in proper sequence in sections; then folds the newspapers and cuts them off from the running web, and finally deposits them on a conveyor. The folder has a counter, which jogs out every 25th copy or every 50th copy, depending upon how it has been set by the operator.

The Courier's new Goss press is equipped with a rewinder, which enables the pressman to assemble the newsprint from small, unused portions of rolls onto another roll. In this manner, paper which ordinarily might be wasted can be spliced together to form another roll, thus contributing to efficiency of press operation. In other words, when the press is loaded with full rolls, it is not necessary to stop the press frequently to change rolls of paper.

New equipment purchased by the Courier also includes a 4,500 pound remelting furnace, in which type metal is heated to the molten stage and cleaned of dross; a Goss tubular vacuum casting box, Goss plate finisher, chipping block, Goss mat roller, mat shears and a centrifugal tubular mat scorching.

There is only one doctor for every 50,000 inhabitants in Ethiopia, British Somaliland, India, China, Indonesia, Liberia, New Guinea, Nigeria, Papua and Ruanda-Urundi.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

by Fulton Lewis, Jr.
(Copyright, 1952,
King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30. Tomorrow and Sunday in New York City's Carnegie Hall and First Presbyterian Church a weird collection of Left-Wingers will get hysterical over the hysteria they say is sweeping the country.

The two-day session is under the sponsorship of the Emergency Civil Liberties Committee. Sparked by Counterattack, the anti-Communist publication, there is a healthy discussion underway over whether the ECLC is or is not a Communist front. I do not propose to answer the question at the moment, but I wouldn't miss the argument for anything.

Chairman of the ECLC is Professor Paul L. Lehman, of Princeton Theological Seminary. He says the committee has a purpose and that is to aid persons in cases involving their constitutional rights and to "prevent the present hysteria from depriving anyone of a fair trial."

Lehman, while cautioning about hysteria, indicates that America today is a land of "book burning, character assassination and witch hunts." He is quoted as describing the Internal Security Act of 1950 as "a blueprint for concentration camps, American style."

Before you resign yourself to the worst, however, let's take a look at others who are peddling the same hogwash.

James Imbrie is secretary-treasurer of the ECLC. He ran for the U. S. Senate in 1950 on the Progressive Party's ticket. This is owned lock, stock and barrel by the Communist Party and was as far back as 1948, when Henry Wallace used it in his try for the Presidency. Imbrie keeps busy defending Communists convicted of trying to overthrow the U. S. Government by force and violence, when he isn't running for office.

Clark Foreman is director of the ECLC. Foreman was labeled a Communist Party member by Louis Budenz, a fact Counterattack notes in arguing that the ECLC is as Red as a rose.

One of the prominent ECLC speakers scheduled for the two-day gabfest in New York is Carey McWilliams. He is an editorial director of the Nation Magazine. Next month he is slated to speak at the Community Church of North Boston, a platform that Owen Lattimore vacated after an oration January 18.

McWilliams also was identified as a Communist Party member by both Louis Budenz and Rosa Wolf, another former Communist Party official.

Professor Thomas I. Emerson, of the Yale University Law School and former head of the National Lawyers Guild, is getting top billing at the conference. He ran the Guild in such a fashion that two committees of Congress wound up labeling it as the "legal arm of the Communist Party." This fact never has seemed to disturb the board of trustees of Yale University. They still have the professor on their payroll, teaching law, according to the university roster.

Emerson is a member of the ECLC executive committee, and, according to Budenz, and alumnus of the Communist Party.

I. F. Stone is another executive committee member. Stone is in business for himself now, writing a news letter, following a notorious career in Washington and New York while an employee of the now defunct "Daily Compass." This propaganda organ of pro-Communists in New York really peddled hysteria almost exclusively over Communists who got caught.

The Compass became so bad even the Communists quit buying it. Stone, of course, is going to address the assembled brethren, who are sore because the Government has started to enforce our laws against spying, stealing secrets, and Communists generally.

Dr. Henry Pratt Fairchild also is on the executive committee of the ECLC. He is associated with New York University and has a distinguished Left-Wing record of front membership and authorship for the Communist magazine, Soviet Russia Today.

Princeton University has the distinction of having a faculty member on the ECLC executive committee—Professor Hugh H. Wilson. The Rev. Milton A. Galamison, of the same community, is another. He is joined by Rev. Malcolm R. Evans, pastor of the Spencer Memorial Presbyterian Church in Brooklyn, N. Y.

What will you bet that in these sessions tomorrow, and Saturday, not a good word is said about the U. S. A.? Most of these characters are too hysterical about us being hysterical to remember anything as basic as that.

ing about in the room until I saw him go out the window. Two flower pots which were on the window sill were broken when they fell to the floor."

Michael, Marks, die setter, husband of Mrs. Marks, testified he heard a noise and a door slam. "I thought it was the children fighting over comic books when my wife screamed 'There is a man in the house.' I jumped out of bed but I was too late to see him in the hall or bedroom."

Ray Haworth, Bristol, RD 3; Wilbur Horner, Garrett ave., Bristol, RD 3, and Harold Beck, Newportville, all witnesses for the Commonwealth, testified how they saw the defendant twice that night and aided in apprehending him. Haworth testified he was driving over the bridge across the Neshaunim creek when his headlights rays picked up a man. He stopped his car and the man told him he was waiting for a taxi.

Later after they heard about the intruder in the Marks home they realized that the description of the man they saw compared with that given by Mrs. Marks. "We drove around and when we saw a man on the bridge, who was the same man we saw earlier, he asked 'Are you the cops?'"

Horner, a former service man, testified the defendant was on the cross-walk on the bridge. "Haworth and I took him to the Marks house, where Mrs. Marks said 'This is the man' and identified Garrison as the man she saw in her hall in her home," Horner testified.

Harold Beck, Newportville, testified he stayed at the Marks home while Haworth and Horner searched the countryside.

Mrs. Ann Haworth, who was riding with her husband in the car, also identified the man as being Garrison.

Chief of Police George H. Rentz, Bensalem twp., who investigated the crime, testified that when he entered the Marks living room Garrison remarked, "You know me, Chief." Mrs. Marks made a positive identification that night in her home and named Garrison as the intruder.

Taking the witness stand, Garrison, the defendant, denied that he entered the Marks home but admitted that he was drinking in a taproom nearby and waiting for a taxi. "To my recollection, No. 1 was not in the Marks home," he said.

Oxford Road

this intersection is to have a traffic light installed.

It should be noted that this is the main artery from Levittown to Route 1. It is the main artery through Fairless Hills. It has become one of the main arteries to the U. S. Steel's Fairless Works. At the present time it is one of the most dangerous traffic spots in Pennsylvania and will continually become worse because of the growth in that area. This conclusion has been borne out by all people who have been requested to observe the situation.

Our Board of Supervisors have informed us that they have requested that a light be placed at this corner but that a survey showing conditions over the past few years must be made first. We should like to indicate that what has happened in the past three years is not what is happening today or will be happening in the future.

We would appreciate your letting us know in as expeditious a manner as possible whether your department can make an immediate favorable decision on this matter. The lives of our children are too important to wait for a survey or for the normal red tape procedures which are many times necessary. Conditions are rapidly becoming worse due to the skyrocketing growth of Levittown and Fairless Hills and because of the steel mill becoming operative. We must have action.

Your assistance on this matter will be greatly appreciated.
Sincerely yours,

Re: Oxford Valley Intersection
Gentlemen:

Enclosed is a copy of a letter which we have written to Mr. E. J. Kinney of the State Highway Department at Ardmore, Pennsylvania.

We would like to formally request that you take every action which you can in connection with the placing of a light at this dangerous intersection.

For your information we plan to take further action by contacting the State Highway Department at Harrisburg, the State Department of Public Instruction and our Governor unless some action is taken within the next few weeks. If you can make any further suggestions which will be helpful we will appreciate it.

Your assistance on this matter will certainly be appreciated by the parents and citizens of this area.

Hellyer said that division lines are recommended at joint meetings of committee men and women of both major political parties in a given area, together with election officers. Hellyer said he attends these meetings but that checking of street lists and names is dependent on the committee men and women of the different areas.

Remaining districts to be split, stated Hellyer, are: Bensalem, upper; each of Bristol township's six wards; Lower Southampton, east; Morrisville, third ward; Upper Southampton, north; Warrington; Warminster No. 1; Lower Makefield, south; and Lower Southampton, west.

C'mon, Joe—there goes the siren!

When fires break out, Pennsylvania's volunteer fire companies do a marvelous job of alerting their members. In many cases, by siren signals, they even broadcast the location of the fire so that firefighters can get there faster.

But—how does news of the fire reach the firehouse?

Most of the time it's by telephone... by the same dependable line of communication that's used millions of times a day for messages of all kinds, urgent and otherwise. Firefighters, like almost everyone else, take good dependable telephone service for granted. That's the way telephone men and women want it to be. And they're on the job, night and day, to keep it that way.

Kaiser Metal Boosts Its Lead To A Full Game

Kaiser Metal boosted its lead in the Bristol Basketball League to a full game last night as it wallopped Hilltop A. C. by the one-sided score of 87-65, on the Rohm & Haas court.

Only in the second period was Hilltop in the game. At this stage, it whittled a 15-point Kaiser Metal lead to three points. But the aircraft workers began clicking again and ran up its large margin.

Jole Pindar scored 30 points for the winners. Most of these were amassed in three quarters as the high-scoring Kaiser forward spent most of the second quarter on the bench. Al Bader and Jim Gallagher contributed 14 and 12 points respectively, while "Eddie" Boyle, of Temple University fame, did good work in the backcourt in addition to supplying nine points.

Roy Richmond and Jack Weaver did most of the offensive work for Hilltop. Richmond accounted for 23 points while Weaver made 17.

Luciano Snaps Out Of Its Losing Streak

Luciano Brothers snapped its losing streak of five games by trouncing the Pennel Aces, 67-49, in the second game of the double-header last night on the Rohm & Haas court. Pennel's losing skin is now four games. As the result of its win, Luciano moved into a deadlock with the Aces for fifth position.

The game was close during the first half but became a rout at the start of the second half, principally on the scoring of Johnny Paone and Elwood Fritz, both former Pennsbury High stars, and Joe Potena. This trio had three field goals each in the third session.

Paone ended the fracas with 22 points while Fritz and Poti had 10 each. Marty Braam was the only Pennel man to hit for double-figures, getting 13 points and scoring the best shot of the night in the final period, a beautiful hook shot.

been 12 false fire alarms received at Langhorne, and Morrow admitted setting three.

Judge Keller told Morrow that on the false fire alarm charges he could have imposed a fine of $500 and a two year term in the Bucks County Jail. On the charge of arson a fine of $10,000 with a two-year term in the penitentiary could have been given.

Fifteen character witnesses appeared for Morrow, including Joseph Zolot, Langhorne postmaster, who said that Morrow was an exceptionally good mail carrier, and during his service of five years he had only taken one week's vacation. Zolot said Morrow serves 700 houses and about 1,000 families, and that he (Zolot) has been unable to obtain a substitute.

Morrow blamed drinking for the cause of arson. In sending in the false alarms he testified that he was definitely afraid of fire and to build up his confidence he sent in the alarms because when he got to the fires he knew what to do. Sometimes he drove the apparatus, and other times he rode on the apparatus with other firemen. Morrow is married, has two children, and served in the U. S. Navy.

"It looked like a bulldozer had gone through the house," said Shaw.

He said that finger-prints have been taken and police are waiting for Laidecker to furnish them with a list of the missing articles. Investigating with Shaw were Robert Lawrence and Charles Haines, and other Bristol township police officers.

This morning, Laidecker, who is an antique dealer and publisher, was compiling a list of things taken, said he believed there were few objects taken. He said, however, that a 32-caliber Colt automatic revolver that is one of the first of its kind was taken from the room of his son, Jack, a student in Bloomsburg State Teachers College, Pa. Some ammunition was also taken, he said.

The pistol a rare collectors item.

Some rare coins were taken, he said, and a pair of jet cuff links. He said that he did not see who it was who had broken in. They did not disturb a large collection of antique glass and china-ware, he said.

Jesus Christ The First and The Last.
(Revelation 1:11, 17, 18)
(St. John 1:1-4)

I am Alpha and Omega, the first and the last:
And when I saw Him, I fell at His feet as dead. And he laid His right hand upon me, saying unto me, Fear not; I am the first and the last. I am He that liveth, and was dead; and, behold, I am alive for evermore. Amen; and have the keys of hell and death.

In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. All things were made by Him; and without Him was not any thing made that was made. In Him was life; and the life became the light of men.

Bristol High Girls Take a Firm Grip On Lead of League

FALLSINGTON, Jan. 30 — The Bristol High girls basketball sextet took undisputed possession of first place in the Lower Bucks County Girls Basketball League by nosing out Pennsbury High girls, 47-44, in a hard-fought tussle on the loser's court.

It was the fourth straight league win for the unbeaten Bristol lassies and their fifth consecutive victory of the season. Until yesterday, the Pennsbury girls were undefeated. They have won three games.

Thus the Bristol girls reversed the tables for what the Pennsbury boys did to the Bristol High boys last Friday night when they took the league lead in the boys' division.

The girls of Coach Barbara Yerkes had to come from behind to snatch the triumph. Pennsbury led in the first quarter, 18-11, when Yarlett connected for six points. At half-time, Bristol had reduced the lead to 25-24 with Pat Woodring and Nancy Almond hitting for 12 points. However, in the third session, Hunter went on a scoring spree and helped the Pennsbury team to take a 37-29 lead. Almond scored the entire 5 Bristol points in this period.

Bristol rallied in the final and scored 18 points while its defense tightened enough to hold the home-sters to seven points. Almond had 10 points and Stephenson and Woodring 4 each in the last quarter.

Almond produced the back-breaking field goal when she made a one-handed push shot after making most of her goals from the outside. Almond had 26 points in the triumph.

Coach Yerkes used two freshmen guards in the win, both giving a fine account of themselves. They were Anne Marie Adams and Doreen Muffett.

In a thrill-packed preliminary game, the Bristol High Girls Jayvees won over the Pennsbury Jayvees, 31-29 with Eleanor Sanko scoring 19 Bristol points in the win. It was the third win against one loss for the Bristol J. V.'s.

Bristol led from the start but the Pennsbury team came back strong after the recess to cut a Bristol lead from 21-13 to 25-23. The Bristol rosters were elated in the final quarter when Sanko and Pat Downing scored three points each to clinch the triumph.
